

COXEY'S MEN TIRED
BY A LONG MARCH.TWENTY MEN DESERT HIM AT M'KEESPORT.

Were Unable To Stand the Fatigue of Traveling on Foot—Tramp Element Are Now Scarce and Are Replaced by Workingmen—A Night of Alarm at Oakland.

M'KEESPORT, Pa., April 7.—[Special.]—Twenty of Coxe's men became tired after their long march of yesterday and deserted him this morning. General Coxe has issued orders that no more recruits be allowed to join the army and has gone even further. Formerly the penalty for infraction of orders was the loss of a meal. Now the penalty is expulsion from the army. There are few of the tramp class in the commonwealth now. Its members are decent out-of-work men who have believed that Coxe would lead them to Washington and feed them all the way. Coxe's fear is that he can not find food for the rapidly increasing numbers. The worst part of the country is to come and food is scarce.

In a day or two this band of men will strike the mountains. For days they will be in a country destitute of houses or towns and in one place a jump of sixty miles must be made before anything resembling a town is met with, and the question of food will be a very serious matter.

The army numbered 503 men when it marched out of Homestead yesterday. The march to McKeesport was begun at 11 o'clock. Nearly the whole distance of fourteen miles seemed to be up hill. The roads were as bad as they could be. To-day the army marches to Monongahela and begins its journey into the dangerous country.

NIGHT OF ALARM AT OAKLAND.

Wild Scenes Were Enacted When the Western Commonwealers Left.

OAKLAND, Cal., April 7.—The city of Oakland has had many exciting events in its history, but nothing has occurred here to compare with the turmoil caused early yesterday by a regiment of unemployed men which left San Francisco Wednesday to join Coxe's army in its journey to Washington. The riot alarm was sounded, the governor was asked to call out the national guards, extra police and deputy sheriffs were sworn in and armed with rifles, and preparations made for fighting of the bloodiest kind, because 640 unemployed desperate men refused to leave the city. The city raised money to pay their fare to Sacramento, but the men refused to ride in the box cars provided and demanded passenger coaches. The citizens were determined they should leave, and at 11 o'clock Mayor Pardee issued positive orders to Chief of Police Schaefer that the industrial army must be driven out of the city by force. Preparations were made to dislodge the tramps, who at first showed fight, but the determined attitude of the citizens cowed them and the industrials agreed to submit peacefully and at 3:30 o'clock a. m. formed a line, and, escorted by 200 armed police and citizens, marched to Sixteenth street station, where they entered the box cars, and shortly after 4 o'clock the train pulled out for Sacramento.

At Sacramento the army will be reinforced by 300 men and unless the railroad company agrees to take the whole lot across the country a riot is almost certain to occur.

Frye's Army on the March.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 7.—Gen. Frye's commonwealers have moved out of East St. Louis. They were notified by Chief of Police Walsh that they would have to leave the city, and in the afternoon they moved to a new camp at Caseyville. The men were all in good spirits and seemed wholly untroubled by the dreary prospect of an overland march to the national capital. Gen. Frye said he was not in the least discouraged by the action of the railways in refusing to carry him and his men. The detachment, he said, would make sixteen miles a day on the march, and as the men were contented and willing he looked forward to a successful trip east. They are walking by the turnpike road.

TILLMAN DISARMS SOLDIERS.

They, However, Own Other Arms and Will at Once Equip Themselves.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 7.—Gov. Tillman has ordered J. Watts, assistant adjutant-general of the state, to disarm and disband the Fourth brigade, South Carolina Volunteer troops. The charges are that the brigade refused to obey the governor's orders and repair to Darlington to suppress the insurrection. The process of collecting the arms will begin to-day. Those who think, however, that the Fourth brigade will be left unarmed will find themselves mistaken. Some of the companies have the arms issued to them by the state. A good many of them have rifles and cannon which they bought and paid for themselves. There seems to be no fear that the companies of the Fourth brigade will disband. From 1871 to 1876 they enrolled as rifle clubs while the negroes monopolized the militia of the state.

Boss Carpenters Giving In.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 7.—About 200 of the striking carpenters went to work yesterday at the union scale.

GOOD TIMES AHEAD, SAYS DUN.

The Prevailing Bad Weather Has Injured the Western Trade.

New York, April 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review says: Improvement in business has continued all week, but the best news is the great decrease in the number and importance of the failures. The number was 2,090 in January, 1,202 in February, and 1,005 in March. The commercial liabilities were $31,320,867 in January, $17,930,419 in February, and $14,736,893 in March. Nearly half the commercial liabilities were of firms failing during the first month; much more than half of the trading liabilities, 51 per cent, as the full statement shows, 42 per cent of the manufacturing liabilities, and 49 per cent of the other commercial liabilities. Moreover, nearly two-thirds of the banking liabilities were of failures in the first month and over half of the railroad liabilities. Though the number of commercial failures, 4,297 in the United States, was never equaled in any quarter until the third of last year, the average of liabilities is only $14,890, which is lower than has appeared in the records of thirty-eight years at any time closely succeeding any serious reverse. The degree of commercial soundness and health thereby indicated gives ground for hope that the liquidations consequent upon the disaster of 1893 have been in large measure accomplished.

Wheat has been lifted about 4 cents by reports of serious injury to the plant, but the accounts are more than usually conflicting and there is much uncertainty about the extent of the injury. Western receipts were 1,711,147 bushels for the week, against 3,170,971 last year, but exports from Atlantic ports were only 759,445 bushels, against 1,042,365 last year. Corn has declined 1½ cents, with western receipts of 2,596,139 bushels. Pork illustrates the contrariness of the hog by rising half a dollar, with lard a shade better.

The cotton market approaches stagnation, with spot steady at 7½ cents, but receipts for the week exceed last year's and still indicate a crop much above 7,000,000 bales. The failures for the last week have been 249 in the United States, against 195 last year, and 26 in Canada, against 28 last year.

REDUCTION WILL COME.

Organizer Hemes Says Railroads Are Moving to Cut Trainmen's Wages.

BRAZIL, Ind., April 7.—The employees of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois held an indignation meeting yesterday. Many stirring speeches were made condemning Chief Sargent for refusing to ratify the sentiment of the firemen as shown in their vote refusing a reduction. The meeting was attended by F. O. Hemes of Danville, an officer of the American Railway union. In speaking of the condition of affairs Mr. Hemes said that a marked reduction on most of the roads in the country would follow. He claimed that several roads have already circular letters printed notifying the employees of a proposed reduction. Among those named by Mr. Hemes were the Wabash and Lake Erie and Western. Supt. Williams of the Vandalia notified the employees of that road that no reduction would be made in their wages, notwithstanding cuts made by other roads.

WILL RESTORE SALARIES.

Judge Dundy Says He Will Grant Application of Union Pacific Employees.

OMAHA, Neb., April 7.—The American Railway union yesterday made application in the United States District court to have the salaries of the members of the order on the Union Pacific road, which were cut last August, restored to the old rate. Judge Dundy was visibly excited when addressing the attorneys from the bench. He said:

"If it is stated that such a cut has been made in the wages of these men connected with this organization—or outside of it—on this railway, when others who are drawing higher pay have been so highly favored, I will see that those who are drawing less pay will be treated the same way and I will advise that the old pay be restored."

Farmers Hunt for Robbers.

ROCKFORD, Ill., April 7.—B. B. Jordan, a well-known farmer living one mile from Irene, a small town five miles east of Rockford, was robbed in his house by three men early yesterday morning. Just how much they got Mr. Jordan is unable to tell, but he thinks it was about $50. The wildest excitement prevails about the vicinity of the robbery, and if the perpetrators are caught there may be a lynching.

Crushed By His Engine.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 7.—The regular passenger train west bound on the Winona & St. Peter branch of the Chicago & Northwestern line jumped the track half a mile east of Lake Benton at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Engineer Ed Frary was crushed to death beneath his engine. The fireman had a narrow escape and the passengers were badly frightened and shaken up, although beyond a few scratches none were injured.

Prospects of Trouble in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 7.—The Ohio miners concluded work on their constitution last night and adjourned. In the opinion of miners and operators there are troublesome times ahead for the Ohio coal interests.

It is almost circus time.

BAD VOTERS HIRED FOR ALBANY WORK.

THE COLONIZATION DID NOT WORK, HOWEVER.

For a Law and Order League Was at Once Organized To Fight the Hired Repeaters, and They Became Frightened and Left Without Putting in a Ballot.

ALBANY, Wis., April 7.—The whisky element hired a delegation from neighboring towns to work here for ten days before election, in order to have their votes for license. This act aroused the temperance people and about seventy-five of the first men of the town organized a law and order league, and raised a thousand dollars to use if necessary, to protect the polls and insure a straight vote. The transient voters weakened, and one by one, left for their respective homes before election day. The ticket nominated by the Law and Order League was elected, except treasurer. Some of the leading democrats did some heavy work for William Smith but honest Judge Bennett got 56 majority. The town went 83 majority for no license.

WITNESS KNEW HIM.

Col. Breckinridge Identified as the Father of Plaintiff's Child.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Interest in the Pollard-Breckinridge case is now centered in the arguments. It is understood that they will be very interesting, particularly those of Mr. Wilson, who will probe the moral character of the defendant. Mr. Butterworth will paint a picture of his client with colors calculated to impress beholders with the belief that the "gentleman from Kentucky" was quite as much sinned against as sinning. He will doubtless also say some pretty hard things about Miss Pollard. The other attorneys are expected in the main to confine themselves to the law and certain parts of their case. There will be the judge's charge, and if it be not favorable to the plaintiff, pretty nearly everybody who has attended the trial will be surprised. The jury's verdict will, so the wise men predict, be either a disagreement or small damages for the plaintiff. In the event of a verdict for the plaintiff, Breckinridge will appeal, and pending appeal trial he will prosecute his canvass for re-election to congress.

The first witness yesterday was Miss Pollard's friend, Dr. Mary Parsons, who was called in rebuttal, the desire being to establish the identity of the handwriting upon the slip of paper alleged to have been attached to the clothing of Miss Pollard's child. Dr. Parsons testified that the slip shown was the identical one which had been pinned to the child's clothing, and that the words "Please name my baby Dietz Downing" were in her handwriting.

Then Mary McKenzie testified that the baby was born in her house on Seventh street, and that Col. Breckinridge had passed at that time as the husband of the mother.

The four mysterious volumes of Irving which had figured in that part of the case centering about the Norwood convent and in which the disputed Christmas card had been found, were placed on the witness stand. Then Attorney Carlisle walked to the stand and took the oath. Attorneys on the other side objected, but Judge Bradley ruled that as the evidence of Sisters Agnes and Augustine might have suggested to the minds of the jurymen the possibility that the card had been put on the book by Mr. Carlisle, it was entirely proper that the latter should be heard upon the subject. Mr. Carlisle said on his oath that he had found the card as described in the testimony and that no one but himself had had any opportunity of putting it there.

Then Miss Pollard once more took the stand, and made denial that she had ever known Mollie Shinglebower, Lena Singleton, John Brandt or Hiram Kauffman, all of whom had deposed that she had been an inmate of a disreputable house in Lexington. She had never heard of Sarah Goss until taken to her house by Col. Breckinridge; had never sustained improper relations with Rhodes nor told Breckinridge that such relations had existed; she had not accepted money from the defendant at the time of her alleged fall. Miss Pollard also denied in all its details the story of the mock marriage between her and Owen Tinsley Christmas day, 1883. There was no understanding that she should deceive Mrs. Blackburn or that she should falsely represent to Major Moore that she was to be married.

With Miss Pollard's retirement from the stand the plaintiff's rebuttal closed. Col. Breckinridge reappeared as a witness and denied that he had told the colored woman, Mary Yancey, that he wanted her to cook for them when they went to housekeeping; that Miss Pollard was never to his knowledge in his room at Mrs. Hoyt's. This ended the testimony. The attorneys arranged to submit their requests for instructions by the court to the jury on the legal aspects of the case to-day and then the jury was excused until Monday.

PEPPER SPEAKS ON THE TARIFF.

Kansas Senator Talks From a Populist Standpoint of the Wilson Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Senator Pepper made his speech on the tariff yesterday and presented the matter as viewed from a populist standpoint. He introduced his speech by discussing the subject of taxation and the amounts paid by the people of the United States to support the government. All taxes, he said, paid by the people of the United States amount to nearly one-half of the government debt at the close of the war. He also discussed the large payments of interest by the people of the United States, which had not been accurately ascertained, but were enormous. "In every way," said Mr. Pepper, "the people are taxed, and it ought to be the aim of statesmen to make these burdens lighter." Mr. Pepper entered into a discussion of revenue and protective tariffs. In the course of his speech he said:

"The most consistent and practical system of tariff taxation for revenue only is that adopted by Great Britain—taxing only such articles as are not produced in the country levying the tax, and in addition such articles as are of a more or less harmful character—as liquor or tobacco. But while this method is simple, it is unjust in its operation. Sugar, coffee, tea and spices would supply all the revenue we now derive from customs. But a system which operates so unjustly upon poor people could not be enforced in this country."

"The best representative tariff we ever had was that of 1846. The first tariff was for two purposes—raising revenue and to establish domestic manufacturing industries—and the effect has been what was desired and expected. In 1890 the McKinley bill increased duties 100 per cent on many articles, including wool, cutlery and porcelain. The McKinley bill was in some respects a legislative monstrosity."

"The Wilson bill is a protective measure. It surrenders revenue on the luxuries and discriminates against farmers. The duties on many farm products are of no benefit to the farm, but when they are of any use let them remain if the protection policy is to be maintained. The Wilson bill allows a loss of revenue that might as well be retained. It is no better on the whole than the present law. It has free wool, but taxes clothes; free hides, but taxes shoes. It protects manufacturers and gives free raw materials."

"The populists have no tariff plank in their platform. We view the subject from the standpoint of taxation. We understand that the levying of tariff duties is a tax upon the people and we would make the burden as light as possible. We look upon this subject through the eyes of the workmen. We study it from the standpoint of the poor and lowly. The wealthy and proud can take care of themselves. The populists believe in a graduated income tax and regard it as the most equitable system of taxation. Protection as taught by our fathers is domestic industries. Only such industries as can be made national, employing large numbers of people, shall be protected, and that only long enough to establish them; after that save the market for them and no more. Bounties in many cases are better than cheaper duties."

Mr. Harris, stating that the tariff bill had never been read in full, and that the senate had refused to dispense with its formal reading, asked that it be then read. The republicans thereupon began dilatory tactics, Mr. Aldrich moving that the senate go into executive session, and Mr. Harris demanding the yeas and nays, which showed the absence of a quorum. Mr. Aldrich's motion being voted down there was a roll call, which disclosed the presence of a quorum, and then the senate adjourned.

REED AND CRISP HAVE A TILT.

The Speaker Scores a Victory After Some Sharp Talk.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Mr. Reed and the speaker had another tilt yesterday. A roll-call was in progress on a bill of Representative Hatch providing for a messenger for the committee on agriculture. The first call had just been finished and the clerk was about to call a second time the names of the members who had not responded, when Mr. Hatch asked unanimous consent to make an explanation. Mr. Reed inquired whether a rollcall was in progress. The speaker answered in the affirmative and Mr. Reed protested, the usual exchange of pleasantries resulting between the two leaders.

Finally Mr. Reed sat down still protesting, and the regular order proceeded.

Another small sensation was caused when Mr. O'Neill of Missouri rose to a question of privilege and made a speech; resenting some criticism passed upon him by Mr. Morgan, of his own state, in a newspaper interview. Mr. Morgan answered him in a spirited manner, and for a few minutes the sparks flew between the two men. Then Mr. O'Neill sat down and regular business was resumed.

The house then went into committee of the whole, Mr. Hatch in the chair, and the consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill was resumed. Mr. Henderson (dem.) had read an appeal to congress against further extension of second class mail privileges. Over 250,000,000 pounds of second class matter was carried by the mails last year, it said; 3,491 news publications were started last year, and the efficiency of the mail service was crippled by the limitless quantities of second class mail matter carried.

The committee rose and the house took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be devoted to pension bills.

Over a hundred and fifty democratic members of the house have united in a request to Chairman Holman of the democratic caucus, for a caucus on the state bank question next Tuesday.

Senator Wolcott's Resolution.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The resolution introduced some time ago by Senator Wolcott, looking to drafting a treaty with Mexico by which the United States should coin silver dollars at its mint, was laid before the senate yesterday and Mr. Teller said he would ask to have it lie over until Monday, as Senator Wolcott was absent. Mr. Teller then briefly addressed the senate in favor of the resolution. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts delivering a ringing speech in support of the resolution, urging its passage, because the experiment was worth trying while it could do no harm. Senator Dubois of Idaho followed in support of the resolution.

Bland is Still Hopeful.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—It may be several weeks, but at the earliest practicable moment Mr. Bland proposes calling up to the coinage committee one of the free coinage bills now before them. Mr. Bland will not do this until all the members of the committee favorable to free coinage are in the city. There are so many absentees at the present time that any other course is regarded by him unsafe.

Nicaragua Canal Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The senate committee on foreign relations held two meetings yesterday and considered the Nicaragua canal bill. It has been decided to report the bill introduced by Senator Morgan favorably as soon as he can prepare a report upon the measure, upon which he is now engaged.

Want Information About Samoa.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The senate yesterday upon motion of Senator Gray adopted a resolution calling upon the President for any information in his possession as to the condition of affairs in Samoa, including correspondence upon this subject with Great Britain and Germany.

COKE REGION QUIET.

Strikers Lay Down Their Arms and Disperse to Their Homes.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 7.—Twelve thousand coke workers yesterday laid down their arms and returned peacefully to their homes disgusted and discouraged. Armed deputies held the balance of power, and under their protection fully half the plants in the coke region which closed down Monday started full and without molestation. This great change took place under cover of darkness. At 12 o'clock Thursday night there were two armed mobs of strikers in the region—one in the north and one in the south—both threatening violence, and this morning there was not a trace of either. For the present all trouble seems to be over. To-day will decide whether or not there will be a rally among the strikers and a continuance of the movement. The Hungarians allege that they have been led into this strike, incited to riot and bloodshed, in order to work up a prejudice against them and cause the people to rise up and either annihilate them or expel them from the region.

Anniversary of Shiloh.

PITTSBURG LANDING, Tenn., April 7.—Appropriate exercises were held yesterday on the battle-field of Shiloh in commemoration of the thirty-second anniversary of that famous conflict. It was participated in by many veterans from Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and other states. In the afternoon a reunion of veterans who took part in the battle was opened and will continue through to-day, when the positions of the various commands will be marked.

J. B. Watkins Made Receiver.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 7.—Upon application of the Farmers' Loan and Trust company and the National Bank of Commerce of New York Judge Caldwell, at Omaha, appointed J. B. Watkins receiver of the J. B. Watkins Mortgage company. The assets are $7,000,000 and the liabilities $5,550,000. The capital stock is $750,000 and the surplus $600,000. Mr. Watkins owns about $650,000 of the stock.

There is no longer any doubt that the Palmetto brand of whiskey is the fighting kind.

BEN KING FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED.

MICHIGAN POET'S CARES END AT BOWLING GREEN.

Heart Trouble Caused His Demise as He Slept, and the Remains Were Discovered This Morning—Body Will Be Shipped to His St. Joseph Home, Where His Family Reside.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., April 7.—[Special.]—Ben King, the Michigan poet and humorist, was found dead in his bed this morning at the hotel. Heart trouble was the cause. The remains will be sent to St. Joseph, Mich., where his wife and two children reside.

DECIDED BY JENKINS.

Famous Northern Pacific Strike Order Slightly Modified.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 7.—The long-looked-for decision by Judge Jenkins on the motion made by the chiefs of the great railway organizations for a modification of his famous Northern Pacific strike order was rendered in the United States Circuit court here yesterday. Judge Jenkins modifies his injunction order by striking out the clause which reads: "And from ordering, recommending, approving or advising others to quit the service of the receivers of the Northern Pacific on Jan. 1, 1894, or at any other time." In all other respects the judge denies the motion of the men. In fact, in all its essential features the original order is sustained. He takes an exactly contrary view to that of Judge Caldwell. The judge's review of the case is complete and exhaustive and carefully covers every point raised in the argument. It is a sweeping victory for the receivers.

Charles Quarles of the counsel for the men said: "It is not the place or the time to criticize the decision, but you may be sure that the case will be appealed to the Supreme court, as we want the highest authority in the land to pass on this question and determine what are the rights of labor."

The petition asked for the modification of the injunction of Dec. 19 by expunging the words, "And from combining and conspiring to quit, with or without notice, the service of said receivers, with the object and intent of crippling the property in their custody or embarrassing the operation of said road, and from so quitting the said receivers, with or without notice, as to cripple the property or to prevent or hinder the operation of said railway." It also asked that the passages in the supplementary injunction (which is much stronger), covering the same ground, be eliminated.

The object of the motion was to bring to a direct issue before the court the question whether courts can grant injunctions to restrain employees from striking.

PAD A SCHOOL FUND.

Kansas Populists Said to Have Made Purchases of Bad Bonds.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 7.—The fact developed yesterday that the state board of school commissioners, consisting of the secretary of state, attorney-general and superintendent of public instruction, has made at least one purchase of valueless bonds, paying for them their face value with accrued interest, and the probability seems to be that several purchases of that character have been made since the populists assumed the control of the state administration. The state school fund now consists of nearly $2,000,000 in money and securities, which were derived from the sale of school lands that were set aside by the government for that purpose when the state was admitted to the Union.

That a large amount of this money has been invested in worthless securities within the last year is now known, but to what extent these purchases have been made can not be determined. How many worthless bonds have found their way into the state school fund is not known, but an investigation will probably be ordered at once.

COLLEGE MEN IN POLITICS.

National Republican League Meeting Attended by 200 Delegates.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 7.—About 200 delegates to the National College Republican league, representing twenty of the leading American colleges from Maine to California, are here to attend the annual meeting. The convention, which is being held in the Music hall of Crouse college, opened with an address by President Hawkins of Syracuse. The address of welcome was made by Prof. W. H. Mace of Syracuse university, acting for Chancellor Day.

Murder and Suicide in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Arthur B. Laparle, son of M. B. Laparle, a wealthy wholesale liquor dealer, shot and instantly killed his sweetheart, Miss Minnie Belle Allen, at the residence of her father, at 9 o'clock last night. Then, with a drunken curse upon his lips, he put a bullet into his own head, which the doctors say must result fatally. Laparle was under the influence of liquor when he slew the woman he wanted to marry and he took her life because she would not run away with him, her objection being that he was too much addicted to the use of stimulants.

Accident at Shopiere.

SHOPIERE, April 7.—John Wright had a wheel taken from his buggy by being run into while going home from church Sunday night. Joseph Dockstader fell from a load of straw last week and was severely bruised, although no bones were broken. E. E. Dole has been ill for the past week. Our town meeting passed off very quietly. A larger vote than usual was polled. W. W. Swingle was elected chairman by a big majority. Freeman and Charles Kemmerer passed through here last week with about twenty-five cows that they purchased west of Afton. Cows are in good demand this spring. Maple sugar sociables will soon be forgotten and strawberries and ice cream will be served up. Mrs. Henry McArthur, of Duluth, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Parker, in this place. Rev. Henry McArthur, of Fort Atkinson, formerly of this place, is very sick and not expected to live. Mrs. William Schenck, who has been very sick for a few days is no better.

South Clinton Favored Politically.

SOUTH CLINTON, April 6.—South

Clinton gets a good share of the town officers this year, Iver Jacobson being elected chairman, W. F. Christman side supervisor and T. T. Nelson assessor. The surprise party at T. T. Nelson's last Friday night was well attended and much enjoyed. Miss Bella Hanson, who has been stopping at Alfred Lee's during the winter, has returned to Chicago. Plowing is well under way and next week seeding will be in order. Three new buildings will be erected in the neighborhood of the West church before the summer is over. Holmbro City is growing slowly but surely.

NO PHYSIC WITH OUR FOOD.

A Phosphatic Baking Powder Theory That Is Dangerous.
From Lippincott's Magazine.

That is a dangerous proposition, put forth by the manufacturers of some of the proprietary articles of food, that their products possess a superior wholesomeness because they contain a drug of some particular medicinal property. Phosphates, alum, lime, arsenic, calomel, etc., have their places as specifics for different diseases, and are invaluable remedies, each in its place. The physician, however, who should prescribe either of them three times a day to a man, woman and child, sick or well, because it was a remedy for some certain disease, would receive no practice in any community.

No one will controvert this statement; yet we find manufacturers of phosphatic baking powders claiming hygienic virtue for their goods because they carry the phosphate used in making them (a cheap substitute from cream of tartar, procured from the bones of dead animals) into the food, although well aware, as they must be, of the fact that with the constant use of such article this drug must pass into our systems daily irrespective of our physical conditions or requirements, or whether or not we may be suffering from some ailment wherein the use of such drug would be positively detrimental. Phosphates are useful medicaments in certain diseases; but they should no more be taken indiscriminately day after day, and without the prescription of a physician, than arsenic, aconite or calomel; indeed, there are conditions of the system, particularly with women, when the prudent physician would not permit the use of lime phosphates even as a medicine.

The object of baking powder is not to provide the body with medicine, but simply to vesiculate or make light the mixture of flour, so as to render it when baked easy of mastication and perfectly digestible. Experts in the business have worked to perfect an article that should do this mechanically without changing the properties or constituents of the flour. When this has been done the perfect leavening agent has been discovered. The manufacturers of the Royal Baking Powder have succeeded in this and make a leavening agent that vesiculates and raises the loaf most perfectly and without changing the properties of the flour. The agent employed, however, to produce this result is not phosphate but the highly refined cream of tartar, which, the health authorities agree, renders that powder, perfectly pure and more reliable and healthful than any other. The recent official tests show, on the other hand, that the best of the phosphatic baking powder makers can do is to produce an article that is one-third or more residuum or impurity.

We want our food pure; especially do we not wish to take alum, lime and phosphates with it at the dictum of manufacturers who may find it cheaper to claim a virtue for the impurities than to remove them.

MORE GRAIN CAME IN LAST WEEK

Man Who Was Burned Out Twice Got His Money.

The loss by fire on the Gibbons' house, which was twice fired by incendiaries, on April 1 and 2, has been adjusted at $206.17. Of this sum $142.02 was on the house and $64.15 on furniture. There was an insurance of $1,100 in all, $600 on the house and $500 on the furniture, all in Silas Hayner's agency.

It will astonish you how quick Johnson's Magic Oil will kill all pain. Sold at Smith's pharmacy; 25 and 50 cents.

CITY PEST HOUSE BURNED BY A BUG.

KEROSENE HELPED TO FEED THE FLAMES.

Consequently It Was All Unroofed Before the Fire Department Reached the Scene—Neighbors Didn't Like To Have It There—City Had No Insurance.

Janesville's pest house was thoroughly disinfected last night, and there are no germs of small pox lingering about it. Neither is there much else left of it except the blackened walls. Harsh and uncharitable people might say that it was set on fire but that is a reflection on somebody and therefore harsh and uncharitable. It is true that the residents of that part of town did not like to have it located there yet they would not break the law of the commonwealth.

Charge it to the "fire bug." The burned building was owned by the city, it having been purchased for the purpose of isolating contagious diseases. The fire was first discovered at 11:15 and an alarm sent in from box 32 at the corner of Racine and South Main streets. The department made the mile run in quick time and found the edifice all in flames with a strong odor of kerosene pervading the atmosphere. The building was unoccupied and burned very quickly. Few people heard the alarm and the turnout was small. The city had no insurance and the loss will be about $200.

EMERALD GROVE HORSE WAS LOST.

EMERALD GROVE, April 7.—While hitched to a post at the farm of J. C. Scott, last Tuesday evening, Rev. Hammond's horse broke loose and wandered off. Considerable time was spent in search that night and early next morning the rig was found in a field near by in good order, much to the delight of Mr. Hammond who will, no doubt, remember this election day call for many years. Two of our young gentlemen drove out with their best rigs one evening last week and called upon two young ladies. Later they were seen wearing a pair of snug fitting mittens. School begins in this district next Monday morning with Miss Anna Clark as teacher. Mr. and Mrs. E. Colwell have bought a farm on Sugar Creek Prairie and have taken possession. They left the village this week. Mrs. James Gillies visited at Beloit this week. John McArthur, who has been spending the past month on the Pacific coast is expected home this week. Thomas Jones began seeding Monday morning, April 2. Election day passed off quietly, the town polling a light vote. James Lamb shipped a car of steers to Chicago for Wednesday's market.

That oily and rough skin cured and the face and hands beautified by Johnson's Oriental soap; medicated and highly perfumed. Sold at Smith's Pharmacy.

AMUSEMENT FOR JANESVILLE FOLK

Rev. Claire's Lecture On Rome.

Janesville people had their choice of entertainments last night. They ranged from lectures to educated horses and iron tuneful melodies to a discussion of the Romish religion. The latter subject was that of Rev. George Hunter Claire of the Universalists church of Madison, who spoke at All Souls church. He complimented the creed and said that the church was not the church that the Protestants believed it to be, from the flashes it got here and there from its teachings and doctrines. A priest was but a man, composed of the same component parts as any other man. If the Pope of Rome and all of the cardinals should get drunk and have a dance every night it would not hurt the cause nor make a pope none the less infallible. He spoke very feeling of the liberal church and prophesied the day when the Lord as at the grave of Lazarus bade the dead come forth so He would call forth the church that the speaker loved and it would shine in all its glory.

Beloit College Club's Concert.

Sounds that were pleasing to the ear were those that a goodly audience listened to at the Congregational church last night when the Glee, Banjo and Mandolin clubs of Beloit college gave their concert. There are fine voices in the glee club and nim-

EACH FOR HERSELF IN THE PIANO VOTE.

NEW RULE AROUSES ADDED INTEREST.

Bower City Girls Who Covet the Shaw Piano Which the Gazette Offers Are Encouraged By The Amended Conditions—Societies Cannot Enter the Contest.

Renewed interest has been shown in the piano contest since the ruling was made that no candidate could enter as representative of an association, lodge or society.

Besides the Y. M. C. A. two local secret societies had planned to make a campaign for the instrument. Such a contest would have done much to advertise The Gazette, but it was held to conflict with the idea on which the offer was based. The plan was suggested as furnishing a way for some young lady dependent upon her own resources to secure a fine instrument free. This plan will be strictly adhered to. The result must hinge upon the energy and popularity of individual contestants.

All who are interested in the canvass are urged to examine the Shaw pianos on exhibition at S. C. Burnham & Co's. The prize piano is expected in a few days.

"As fine an instrument as Janesville ever saw."

That's what Burnham & Co., say and they know Shaw pianos from pedal to music rack.

From now until the contest closes a coupon will be printed in each issue of the Gazette.

1. Any one, anywhere in any state is entitled to vote as often as they buy a copy of The Janesville Gazette containing the above ballot.

2. Cut the ballot out (trimming on the dotted lines.) Write in the name of your candidate and enclose same in an envelope addressed to Bailot Editor, Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

3. Only one person can be voted for on one ballot.

6. The lady who receives the largest number of votes will receive as good and beautiful a piano as the Shaw Piano Company can make.

7. The contest will close June 30, 1894. Piano will be delivered as soon as the counting of votes is completed.

8. Any person who will bring The Gazette one new subscriber paid in advance will be entitled to the following number of ballots:

New subscriber paid in advance one month, 100 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance two months, 250 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance six months, 900 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance one over, 2,000 votes.

Each new subscriber who pays in advance and casts the number of votes specified is also entitled, of course, to cut coupons from the paper from day to day and vote in the regular manner.

No person will be allowed extra votes for stopping his paper and having it sent to another name at the same address.

In every instance they must be bona fide new subscribers.

We will be square with you, you must be square with us. No person will be allowed to stop his paper on Monday and start it again Tuesday and claim the premium offered.

The polls will close at 9:00 p. m., June 30, but votes handed in before this will be duly credited. The contest will be conducted strictly "on the square." No partiality or unfair advantage will be taken or allowed in any case.

BRIEF BITS OF HUMOR.

He Made a Neat Hit.

"Is there anyone living here under twenty-one years of age?" inquired a man who rang the door bell of a Harlem residence the other day.

"No, there is not," rather sharply replied a spinster of eight-and-thirty summers who answered the ring.

"Why! Is it possible?" was the reply of the apparently astonished man; "don't you live here?"

It was a neat hit, and after a little simpering and a brief chat about the weather the maiden purchased two copies of a work entitled: "Hints for the Young."—Tammany Times.

The Country Newspaper.

The old country weekly—how dearly I love it! From crisp city daily I quick turn aside, To read its quaint "leader," the heading above it.

A hoary-headed editor's joy and his pride: Its columns of locals in which all the doings Of kinsman and neighbor so tersely are told. The births, deaths and accidents, weddings and wooings, The sheriff's sad notice of land to be sold; Its crude correspondence, some villager's caper, Its tritely told stories of sorrow and joy— They all may be found in the country newspaper.

A Bad Influence.

Customer—That clerk of yours made a mistake, and gave me some deadly poison yesterday. Why, if I hadn't discovered it in time, just think what might have happened.

Druggist—There! I was afraid it wouldn't do.

Customer—What wouldn't do? Druggist—You see, he has been rooming with an undertaker in the next block.—Brooklyn Life.

Fond Remembrance.

Wife (whose husband has just thrown a tin pail at her head)—John, I wish we were rich again—then you used to throw real porcelain at my head.

Husband (after his wife has hampered him with a cotton umbrella)—And I sigh for the time when you used an eighteen dollar silk umbrella on my back instead of a ninety-cent gingham atrocity.—Hallow.

Pinning Him Down.

She—Why didn't you come around last night?

He—I didn't get through at the office until so late that I hadn't time to go home to dress, and I didn't like to call in my business suit.

She—Why not? Don't you mean business?—Detroit Free Press.

Not What He Wanted.

Gus de Smith—How are you and Miss Bondelipper coming on? Are you engaged?

Kosciusko Jones—No, I asked her father for her hand and he gave me his foot.—Alex Sweet, in Texas Siftings.

Hard Luck.

Gayleigh—Cheer up, old man. Don't be down-hearted; remember "everything goes" in this world.

Sadleigh—That's just the trouble, everything goes and nothing comes in.—Truth.

A MARK OF DISTINCTION.

Miss Nouveau Riche—I wonder why everybody's staring at us?

Mrs. Nouveau Riche—Didn't your paw buy a senator yesterday?—Hallow.

A Cry For Help

In the stillness of the night is sufficiency starting. What if no aid be at hand or we know no where the cry comes? This is not the case with that mute appeal made to the resources of medical science, ever ready, ever available by disease on every hand. A prompt means of self help for the malarious, the rheumatic, the dyspeptic, the bilious, and persons troubled with impending kidney complaints, is to be found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an ever-present help in time of trouble for all such hapless individuals. They should not delay a moment in seeking its aid. Experience has shown its wide utility, the recommendation of eminent physicians everywhere sanction its use. Nervous, thin, debilitated invalids gain bodily substance and vigor by a course of this fine invigorant, which is eminently serviceable, also, to the aged and convalescent.

A God-send is Ely's Cream Balm. I had catarrh for three years. Two or three times a week my nose would bleed. I thought the sores would never heal. Your balm has cured me.—Mrs. M. A. Jackson, Portsmouth, N. H.

I have had nasal catarrh for ten years so bad that there were great sores in my nose, and one place was eaten through. I got Ely's Cream Balm. Two bottles did the work. My nose and head are well. I feel like another man.—C. S. McMillen, Sibley, Jackson Co., Mo.

Judge Bennett's plurality over Mr. Smith was 2166 and his supporters say that if the campaign had been made on a party basis it would have been much larger.

COLLEGE CLUBS TRAVEL IN STATE.

Special Cars and Colored Servants For The University Students.

The University students who appear at the Myer's opera house Monday evening next, left Madison last Monday, on their annual tour about the state. The three clubs contain thirty-six students, sixteen in the glee club and ten each in the other clubs, but the guitars "double up" so that twelve men appear with each organization. The clubs travel in two special cars, a first class diner and a sleeper, "with a retinue of colored attendants." They are using the C. M. & St. P. R. R. exclusively, and are accompanied on the trip by W. W. Heaford, formerly of this city, now district passenger agent of the Milwaukee road. Monday evening they were met by the Milwaukee alumni and given a ride about the city. After the concert, the resident alumni tendered the students a banquet and reception at the Plankinton, at which President Adams, Judge Noyes, E. P. Vilas and other prominent alumni were present and responded to toasts. Tuesday evening the club appeared at Oshkosh where a large party was given in their honor. Last evening they appeared at Racine, where a reception and supper was given them at a private residence. Friday evening they appeared at Evanston; Saturday at Rockford; Monday at Janesville. Leaving here by special train at midnight they go to Eau Claire thence to La Crosse.

This promises to be one of the most successful trips the club have ever undertaken. Many of the old singers who have been with the club before, are with them now. The mandolin and banjo clubs are receiving excellent press notices, indicating that they are well disciplined. As the manager of the club says: "Our object is not to make money, not to advertise ourselves, but simply to unite in one common band present students and alumni throughout the state. We have but one end in view, the building up and advancement, through proper channels, of our Alma Mater." The program suggests a bit of the musical student's life and promises to be a very enjoyable evening.

Bluefields Trouble Is Settled.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 7.—President Zelaya says the trouble at Bluefields has been amicably arranged. He denies that there is any movement of Nicaraguan troops except those which have been operating in Honduras against Vasquez, and those, he declares, are returning to their regular stations.

A FEARFUL SUSPENSE.

She Thought It Would Never End.

Suspense is an awful thing. People suffer month after month from various troubles hoping yet doubting. Thousands of persons are injuring their health and breaking down under a load they cannot bear. They find they are getting nervous, irritable, they can't sleep and often have headache.

There is not the slightest need to live on this way, for you can be cured just as well as not. Mrs. E. A. Williams, of Franklin, Mass., has suffered terribly from her nerves and ill health but she is now well and tells in the following letter just how to be cured:

"I was completely broken down in health. My nerves were all unstrung and exhausted. I could not sleep nights and my limbs trembled all the time. It was evident there was a terribly diseased condition of nerves."

"I took all kinds of medicines but neither they nor the doctors did me any good. I became fearfully discouraged and thought I should never get well. The suspense was awful."

MRS. E. A. WILLIAMS.

"Having heard of the wonders of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I determined to use it. The result was remarkable. After taking three bottles the nervousness was all gone, I could sleep well and my limbs were all right. I was entirely cured by this grand good medicine."

"I cannot speak highly enough of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I am a God-send to us poor sufferers. It cured me perfectly and completely of all my troubles, and I know it will do the same for others. Oh! that I had taken it before."

Ask yourself this question honestly and fairly: if you knew a medicine would surely cure you would you not take it? Well, everybody who takes Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is cured, and you will be. Commence now, in the spring, when you can be cured quickest.

A spring medicine is absolutely necessary to all, and people are sure that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the best. It was discovered by Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York city, the most successful specialist in curing nervous diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

SOME WELL-KNOWN FACES.

Justice Edward D. White.

The new associate justice of the United States supreme court, Edward Douglass White, is a native of Louisiana and was born in the parish of La Fourch in 1854. His grandfather and father were both Louisiana judges before him. He was admitted to the bar in 1868, elected to the state senate in 1872 and appointed an associate justice of the state supreme court in 1876, remaining on the bench till 1879, when the adoption of the new constitution vacated all state offices. In 1888 he was elected United States senator to succeed James B. Eustis for the term beginning March 4, 1891.

SIXTY Men Hold Conferences.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Ex-Representative A. J. Warner of Ohio, president of the Bimetallic league, was in conference with leading free silver men of both houses yesterday as to the advisability of organizing a new party. He proposes to call a convention at some place in the south or west for the purpose of launching the new silver organization and combining the south and west against the north and east.

To Begin Investigation Monday.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Representative Boatner has telegraphed to William G. Curtis, counsel for the receivers of the Union Pacific road, stating that Judge Jenkins investigation would begin at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the Pfister house, Milwaukee.

Hanged and Riddled with Bullets.

GREENSBORO, Ga., April 7.—A negro named Dan Ahren was arrested for assaulting Mrs. Chambers, a helpless old woman. At 10:30 yesterday a crowd arrived from the adjoining county and, after the sheriff's refusal to give up the keys, battered down the doors and secured the negro. After the mob had left a telegram was received from Gov. Northen ordering out the militia to protect the prisoner, but it was too late. He was taken a mile from town and hanged to a pine tree and his body riddled with bullets.

MUCH FRUIT GOES DEMOCRATIC.

Edison Howe Tells How He Is Faring On a Missouri Farm.

Edison Howe formerly of Rock county writes from Macon City, Mo., that the cold weather has probably killed early apples, peaches and pears.

"We have two orchards containing fifteen acres mostly winter varieties. Our early fruit has gone democratic by a large majority. What the people want is another presidential election to put out the soup house administration. A wet pine board would light with a good blaze if held within three feet of a democrat's face these days. The mossbacks are not worried now over the terrible tax on the poor man's dinner pail. It is to get something to put into the pail that worries them, but by strict economy they save a little corn bread to fill their stomachs on the morning of election to vote for democracy and reform. Republicans here call the democrat party 'mossbacks.' They are the same in every state. One might as well try to get a grindstone drunk as to try to convince them that they are wrong, but out they go in 1896. Republicans here want McKinley for president."

Changing Their Minds.

A reaction on the separatist question has set in in Norway and the separatist party, who want the union between Norway and Sweden repealed, is losing ground in the country districts. The rural populations are, it is said, beginning to realize that the union is a source of strength to Norway, and while they can see what they would lose by separation, the advantages to be gained are not clearly apparent. Bjornstjerne Bjornson is still actively urging the separatist cause.

No Common Clay About It.

Policeman, discovering young mother tying an elaborate box tied with ribbons to lamp-post—An' p'what air yez doin' there, mum?

Young Mother—Why, you see, sir, we've got to send a whole lot of replies to letters of congratulation on baby's first anniversary, and I don't want to put them in the same box that everybody uses.

Found in the Tiber.

The Roman police have seized an important piece of Byzantine sculpture from a workman employed on the Tiber, which he secreted after finding it in the river. It is a bust in relief of Christ, surrounded by an elegant carved border. The work is in marble, and is said to be perfectly preserved.

The Giants of Berlin.

There is a club in Berlin called the Giants, every member of which is six feet tall. Vienna has a Lazy club, no member of which does anything for a living, and London a Bald Headed club, where nothing but polished skulls are seen.

Discredits the Fighting.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—All is quiet among the Cheyennes and Arapahoes in Oklahoma according to information that has reached the bureau of Indian affairs. The bureau officials assert that the trouble near Fort Reno amounted to nothing more than a personal difficulty between one or two of the Indians and a like number of the cattle men.

LAW AND ORDER MEN WIN THEIR FIGHT.

EVANSVILLE LEAGUE SCORE A POINT ON KING ALCOHOL.

Cassius Gleave and M. H. Broderick are convicted, and the latter agrees to quit the business and throw open his place at any reasonable time to any officer.

Law and order is on top at Evansville and the rum demon, with main dejected and tail-between-legs is on the run. The newly organized Law and Order League are responsible for this victory, and District Attorney Wheeler was the commander of the expedition. March 3 Mrs. J. S. Davis, wife of the pastor of the Evansville Methodist Episcopal church, entered complaint in behalf of the state before Justice W. B. Phillips against M. Broderick and Cassius Gleave for the illegal selling of liquor. This led to the organization of a law and order league, which pledged itself to the amount of $1,300 to pay the expenses of prosecuting anyone who might be found in the liquor business in this city previous to March 3. Edgar Patterson of the University Law school was employed to secure sufficient evidence to convict those who were running what is known as "blind pigs."

Premises Open to Inspection. The cases were called yesterday, District Attorney Wheeler and I. C. Richmond of Madison, appearing for the state and Attorney Charles Pierce for the defendant. Gleave was first tried, convicted, and sentenced to pay $75 fine and costs. An appeal to the Circuit court was at once taken and bonds of $200 given. But before Broderick's trial commenced a settlement of the whole affair was made by Broderick paying about $400, and contracting a never more indulge in the same business or allow anyone else to do so on his premises. There never has been a licensed saloon in this place and the majority of its citizens seem determined that there shall never be. Mr. Broderick's course is warmly commended, he agreeing to throw open his premises open to the inspection of the president of the board, the president of the law and order league or the village marshal at any reasonable hour of any day. Although some of the more radical of the league were dissatisfied, yet the great majority thought it the wisest and best course. The idea is not to persecute, and not to wreck vengeance on any particular person or persons, but simply to enforce law.

MRS. SHAFER WAS CAST INTO JAIL.

ORFORDVILLE WOMAN ARRESTED BY SHERIFF BEAR.

Came Here To Attend a Trial as Defendant and Was Arrested on a Grand Jury Indictment, for Selling Liquor—Burglars Steal a Plow—Story of Brutality.

Ellen Shaffer, of Orfordville, registered last night at the Hotel Bear, occupying a suit of rooms in the female section of that noted resort. Mrs. Shaffer was indicted by the grand jury last November and a warrant was issued for her arrest. Officers visited Orfordville but found Mrs. Shaffer lame and unable to leave her bed. Since other warrants have been issued and the same dodge was worked successfully. Officer Cochrane once took a doctor out there to examine her and ascertain the true facts. Yesterday, not knowing the sheriff had a criminal warrant against her, she came to the city to appear in the municipal court to answer a charge of illicit dealing in liquors and her case was continued. Sheriff Bear heard of this and went to the depot just in time last evening.

"Madame, I think you had better stay with me tonight. I have a warrant for your arrest," he said, and although Ellen at first protested, she finally went with her escort.

Mrs. Shaffer appeared before Judge Bennett today and listened to the reading of the grand jury indictment, when she pleaded not guilty, and was released on giving bonds in the sum of $500 to appear for trial at the coming term of the circuit court.

Flowers.

How well I remember the flowers That in mother's garden grew, The dear old fashioned blossoms They are always sweet and new.

The poppies red, the poppies white The yellow pansies and the black, The lovely golden buttercups And great sweet bunches of lilac.

In the freshness of early morning, The garden was the sweetest then With the silver dew sparkling over all I can't describe it with my pen.

The roses—yellow, pink and red, The forget-me-nots of ancient blue, The myrtles and the heliotrope, And pinks of wondrous hue.

Oh, how sweet the odor comes From all these dear old flowers, Planted by mother's loving hands; Where she spent many happy hours.

How sacred they will ever be, With their fragrant memories; How we wish they might always stay And fill our hearts, like melodies.

ABIE A. FORD.

Mrs. Bernard Turley.

Sad news came to Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Birmingham from Chicago last night, it being the notification of the death of their daughter, Mrs. Bernard Turley, which sad event occurred at the World's Fair city yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Turley was well known in Janesville and her death will cause sadness among a large circle of friends. She had been ill for five months but of late had been gaining, which fact made the blow of her demise more crushing. Some weeks ago her little child was brought here for treatment and the remains of the mother will arrive to-night. The funeral will be held at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

AUGUST LALK NEARLY DROWNED.

Struggled in the Ice Water of the Lake for Three Hours.

He had placed his float on a hand sled which he was drawing on the ice toward open water when the ice suddenly gave way. Mr. Lalk was in the water for three hours before he had broken the ice back far enough to hold the weight of his body. It was a close call, but he suffered no serious consequences.

PEST HOUSE TALK IS NOW REVIVED

An Isolated Location Near the Cemeteries Suggested by Many

Now that the pest house has been destroyed, what will the special committee do in providing even a temporary place to house contagious diseases is a question asked today. Many people claim that it would be the right thing to purchase a small tract of land near the cemeteries, build a dwelling with hospital annex, and then allow some family to occupy it free of charge with a proviso that all patients taken there should be cared for. It is claimed that such a hospital would be the less objectionable, and always in order. It is useless for the city to think of keeping patients properly in an old abandoned rookery.

AN AGED WOMAN'S HEAVY FALL

Mrs. Foltz, Aged 84, Plunged Headlong Down Stairs Last Night.

Mrs. S. L. Foltz plunged headlong down the cellar stairs at the home of her son-in-law, County clerk W. J. McIntyre last night and was picked up unconscious. As she is eighty-four years of age the result of her injuries will be hard to predict. She opened the wrong door, thinking she was entering her bedroom.

TEN CENT LEAF BROUGHT 4 CENTS

F. J. Collman Buys Fine Goods For a Song at Virgo.

F. J. Collman, of this city, representing Sutter Bros., has picked up about two car loads of choice crops in the growing regions south of Virgo. These fine goods are sorted and cased and command the princely price of two to four cents per pound. A like grade of tobacco sold readily in the bundle last season for six to ten cents. Thus farmers and all others can readily see and feel the bad effects of tinkering with the tariff.

MUST PAY THE LOSS ON MULHALL'S FIRE.

JUDGE BENNETT DECIDES THE INSURANCE SUIT.

The Contractor, John Arquette, Had a Short-Time Policy on a House He Was Building, Which Became Complicated by the Charge That the Blaze Was Incendiary.

Judge Bennett ordered judgment today in favor of the plaintiff in the case of W. A. Edwards against John Arquette; defendant, the Agricultural Insurance Co., of Watertown, New York, garnishee. Forty-one dollars and eleven cents is the claim of Edwards. This ruling of the court compels the insurance company to pay the insurance of $700 on the Mulhall house which was destroyed by fire last May. The house was in the course of construction. In April previous, Arquette, the contractor, secured a short time insurance policy, assigning a portion to Schaller & McKee as security for lumber furnished. The insurance company believing the fire incendiary and not satisfactorily explained, withheld payment. Creditors of Arquette brought action in court, and the above decision is the first of a number to follow, swallowing up the amount of the insurance policy.

SHORT JACKETS SHOWN NOW.

Fickle Fashion Has Changed From One Extreme to the Other.

Fashion has entirely changed her mind on the subject of outside coats since last winter. Then the full skirt of the garment hung nearly to the knees, but now short jackets are shown, flaring indeed, but without a great deal of material in them. They are close fitting in the back, but may be either tight or loose in front, although they are usually double breasted, and large revers are the almost invariable rule. Big carved buttons of colored pearl are used upon them, and bouffant sleeves give the fashionable breadth of shoulder. Thin covert cloth is the favorite material and is newer than plain, glossy finished goods, although the latter are still worn.

The tan shades are less yellow than those worn last year, and browns, grays and beaver shades are well represented in addition to the standard black and navy blue. Some of the jackets are lined throughout with silk, but as that renders them too heavy and burdensome for general use the majority are unlined except in front. No trimming is used beyond the large buttons down the front, already mentioned, the large revers and the plain stitching employed as a finish giving the jacket a sufficiently jaunty effect. No full length coats and no wing sleeved garments have been displayed among the new importations.

For street costumes the round bodice still prevails. Sometimes there is a narrow ripple basque below the waist, but the plain belted corsage is the rule. Plain skirts are also the rule and so far greatly outnumber the double or draped ones, although fashion prophets declare that the latter are sure to conquer before long. The average skirt is more than four yards around the bottom at present, and contains, therefore, enough goods to give it an appreciable weight. If an ample second skirt be added to it, it will be no light burden to carry. The horizontal bands of trimming so much used last season are giving place to flounces, braid and other decoration arranged about the foot of the skirt, and many French models show the skirt left entirely plain.

A gown of biscuit zibeline has a flaring skirt devoid of any trimming and a full round bodice gathered in under a belt of white satin ribbon. Over this is worn an Eton jacket of velvet of the same color, with narrow revers and gigot sleeves. It is embroidered all over with fine jet beads and cabochons, and the lower part of the sleeves is decorated with immense jet buttons.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONS FOR CHILDREN.

White Pique Baby Shoes Are One Very Pretty Spring Novelty.

One piece gowns are still the favorite style for little girls and children. For very little people the fullness is usually allowed to fall from the shoulders, although sometimes the old fashioned baby waist is seen, gathered into a belt, with the full skirt sewed on. In gowns for older girls the bodice, however fancifully it may be cut and trimmed, is yet attached to the skirt in the same manner and buttons at the back. Full shirred or plaited bodices are preferred, with skirts gathered all the way round. For little boys not yet out of kilts pretty sailor suits are shown made of white or figured duck and trimmed with colored cambric or embroidery. The skirts are scant, while the blouses have wide turnover collars, with a big tie or a frill down the front. In thicker goods a neat suit was seen with a kilt of green and blue plaid brightened with a thread of yellow.

Figured sheer white nainsook is used for the most charming baby dresses of the year, and even long infant slips are shown in this material. They are trimmed sparingly with fine valenciennes lace and are very carefully made. A novelty is shown in the shape of white pique baby shoes, with a strap to fasten across the ankle and a tiny rosette of lace or embroidery secured to the front of the shoe by a pearl button. These Cinderella slippers, with the little short socks that go with them, are fit only for hot weather wear and should be replaced on cooler days by kid shoes and longer stockings made of fine cashmere. Pique holds a prominent place among children's materials this season, being made not only into shoes, sun-bonnets and hats, but into kilts, blouses and coats. In the finer qualities, however, it is rather too thick and firm in texture to be a comfortable fabric for wear on warm days.

A sketch is given of a little girl's party dress. It is made of thin woolen crepon; the skirt is trimmed with four graduated flounces of the material, while the full blouse bodice, which is cut square around the neck, is trimmed with two ruffles. The puffed elbow sleeves are also finished with two ruffles, and the junction of the bodice and the skirt is concealed by a belt.

HAIR DYEING AN ANCIENT ART.

From Cleopatra Down Women Have Resorted to the Dangerous Art.

The art of dyeing the hair is at least as old as the time of Christ; it was by resorting to such aids to beauty that Cleopatra tried to capture Caesar. All through history ladies of fashion have tried to improve upon nature by artificially coloring that which St. Paul tells us is their glory. In the heyday of Venice, the facile beauties of the city of the lagoons dyed their hair a red to which Titian was not ashamed to affix his name. The belle of belles in that day had red hair, not bright red, but a dull red, with glints of crimson. More recently, almost in our own time, a rage arose for bright blonde hair, as to which there was a tradition that it had been popular with the Greek hetairæ. Blonde heads blocked the thoroughfares, and young ladies of good repute did not disdain to employ the dyer until his services were monopolized by another class. In our day, the popular color is a bright shade of auburn—the blonde centre of the boulevards—and silly girls go through martyrdom to impart that tint to their locks. For the popularity of blonde hair the Argonaut finds this excuse, that it is rarer than black or brown hair, and finer. Everybody knows that the golden fleece was suggested by the ardor with which Jason and other Greek connoisseurs pursued the blonde haired maidens of Colchis.

Almost all hair dyes consist of sulphur and acetate of lead, both of which are injurious to so delicate a plant as human hair. A steady course of either will destroy the hair papilla and may destroy the medulla altogether. Women who bleach their hair use peroxide of hydrogen, which, after a time, imparts an unnatural and wiglike luster to the hair. A more dangerous dye still has for its basis nitrate of silver. When this is used the hair is first washed with sulphuret of potassium; the nitrate is applied while it is still wet. In all these cases the drug is adulterated with a pigment of the desired color and the effect for the time is to substitute that color for the natural hue of the cortical substance or hair bark. It need hardly be said that the effect of a continued use of such medicaments is to enfeeble and ultimately rot the root sheaths. Baldness then ensues, and for that science has discovered no remedy.

A Grim Ornament.

"It was decidedly a grim ornament," said the society young man, "that I saw recently at the house of a well-known civil engineer whose career had some time been in the Rocky mountains. It was a necklace composed of the finger nails of a young Sioux brave slain by a Ute warrior, who, with the scalp of his victim, had taken this trophy of his prowess. Strange to say, this necklace was intrinsically very handsome. The characteristic shapeliness of the Indian's arm and hand, ideally perfect even to the finger tips, was illustrated in this barbarous memento. The necklace of ten pieces was in color a vital brown, suggesting more than anything else a string of acorns. So removed in appearance was it from any forbidding suggestions of the savage deed it recorded that the genuinely gentle and refined woman to whom it was shown handled it longingly, and begged of the owner that if he ever gave it away it should be to her."—N. Joshua's Long Day.

Lieutenant Totten, once professor of military tactics at Yale college, and who perhaps still fills that important position, once figured out the date of the celebrated "long day of Joshua." He calculated from the full moon in June, 1890, and after much laborious work found that the famous Beth-horon conjunction took place at 11:13 a. m., exactly 3,435 full lunar years before the full moon on the date first given above. Professor Totten delights in curious and speculative astronomy, and is said to have found, while working on the above, that a similar conjunction took place on the zenith of Beth-horon during the September lunation in the year 1112 A. D.

REV. FATHER CLARK, Sec'y to the Rt. Rev. Bishop of Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I cannot say enough for your Powder. It has cured me of an aggravated attack of catarrh when nothing else could help me. Am delighted with it. All my friends to whom I administered samples are quite enthusiastic over it. The good sisters speak most encouragingly of their use of it in the Hospital under their care. I will do anything to speak a good word for the remedy to help others who are suffering."

M. E. FENIMUSON, Custodian U. S. Appraiser's Stores, Chicago, writes: "Being almost entirely deaf for a number of years past and getting no relief from many so-called cures which I tried, was induced by a friend to try Dr. Birney's Catarrh Powder for my deafness. Have recovered my hearing entirely, so that I can now hear a watch tick plainly, it being held 15 inches from my ear. Took upon it as a positive cure for deafness and have recommended its use to many of my friends and can say I have never heard of a case where it has failed to relieve."

THE PHEBE BIRD IN SPRING.

The water drips from the mossy eaves
In jewel drops on last year's leaves;
The earth is wrapped in a vale of mist,
And through this gauze of anethyst
Comes the phebe's note, so clear, so sweet,
The call of the phebe bird:
Phebe! Phebe! Phebe!

The sun is shedding its rosy glow
On tufts of crocuses white as snow
That bloom by the old stone wall,
And from the woods by the waterfall
We faintly hear, so clear, so sweet,
The call of the phebe bird:
Phebe! Phebe! Phebe!

The breath of violets most rare
Is wafted on the gentle air,
While from each mead and ferny dell
Comes a plaintive note like a silver bell,
So piercing fine, so clear, so sweet,
The call of the phebe bird:
Phebe! Phebe! Phebe!

—Alice B. Waite in New York Sun.

A DECEPTION.

The bombardment had come to an end. Every fort along the line had been silenced, and in common with the other men-of-war lying in the harbor we were sending landing parties ashore.

As chief surgeon on board I was busy below with the poor fellows who lay suffering unspeakable agonies with compressed lips and white, haggard faces.

Bending down with my assistants over the prostrate body of a young midshipman, I did not hear footsteps approaching and started when some one laid his hand on my shoulder. It was Lieutenant Harold Patterson.

"Carter, old man," he said as I stood up and wiped my hands, "this rough work has niggled me a bit. I've got a nasty knock here, see?" He lifted up his left arm painfully with his right hand, and I then saw that the dark blue cloth was torn and stained and stiff with congealed blood.

"Bit of a small shell," he continued, with easy carelessness. "I want you to doctor it up a bit, for I've got to go ashore with Teaser."

Teaser was his gun. It was a light machine gun, a capital weapon for square or retreat work. Patterson was a perfect child with his gun. He treated it as if it were one of his greatest friends on earth.

"There's going to be some sport on the other side of those batteries, I can assure you," he said, pointing with his thumb through the porthole toward the land.

"Old Teaser's going to make things hum round there a bit, or she's going for old iron when we get back. Candidly, Carter, did you ever see a gun like her? Did you ever see a piece of metal pump bullets like she does? Lord, I'd stick against a dead wall and buck up 500 howling niggers with her single-handed."

When I had fixed him up, we went on deck. The hot air between the bulkheads made me feel sick and dizzy, and I wondered at a government like ours taking it into their heads to send out women as nurses among the wounded.

Out in the offing I could see the transport that was bringing the soldiers and the women.

The advent of the women was a confounded nuisance. I told Harold so.

"Fie, doctor," he said. "I should never have thought of you! Shame on you for speaking of the ladies in that disrespectful way. Why, the little dears, they'll be the means of bringing round the fellows a lot more quickly than you and your crew could ever hope to. Three cheers for the ladies, I say."

And as he raised his cap and waved it round his curly head I felt that there was a soft place in his heart for women in general by reason of the fact that one of them far back in England was sighing for her bronzed and handsome lover, who was just now so enthusiastically championing their cause.

But although I had been in his company for at least three weeks he had never once mentioned to me the name of the girl I was now convinced was responsible for this outburst of vehemence.

His wound did not prevent his taking his place in the pinnace. Teaser was there in the bow, carefully wrapped in yellow tarpaulin.

I watched them take her ashore and saw through my glasses how carefully and tenderly he superintended her manipulation until at length the whole battery disappeared from sight through a breach in the fortifications.

A couple of hours later the big transport arrived. She brought out two regiments and half a dozen voluntary nurses.

One of them came to our ship. I fear the reception I gave her wasn't a very cordial one, but I didn't want her there at all and expressed my annoyance in my actions.

The expression of the face, tanned by exposure during the voyage, was firm and intellectual, and there was a look of businesslike savvy about her manner that we doctors always admire in any one. But time alone would show her worth.

In the cool of the evening I had the sick brought up on deck. There were few serious cases, and for these I could do no more than I had already done.

Nurse sat reading by one of them. She had a remarkably clear and well-balanced voice, and I could see the poor fellows on either side straining their ears to catch the sweet sounds that had been foreign to them for so long.

I leaned over the bulwarks and watched landing parties returning to their respective ships. I could see a couple of the men of our boat impatiently walking up and down the beach, while the others stood with boathooks keeping the pinnace a few yards out and off the bottom.

Then through the breach 20 yards above them came the remainder of our party. They were walking slowly and carrying some of their number. I could not see the gun.

When they came alongside, the two wounded were handed up. One was a seaman. He was taken below. The other came up.

His face and part of his body was covered with a blood-stained cloth, but I saw the legs and the sturdy arms, and a big lump came up in my throat. As I turned ed to follow them down below one of the men said to me in a hoarse whisper: "Gun burst, sir. For God's sake don't say he's going!"

They loved him, all these men did. He had been like a brother to them.

I knelt by the side of the boy—he was only a boy. He still breathed, though slightly, but, cruel sight! he was blind, and his once handsome face was horribly disfigured.

He raised his hand slowly and felt my arm and carried the fingers up to my face. I bent down to catch the words which fell from his moving lips.

"Ah, Carter, old fellow, I'm back, you—you see. Low—trick of—Teaser, wasn't it? Thought she might have had—a little—more—respect for me, eh, Carter?"

His lips moved again, and as I bent down I heard a light footstep behind me. It was nurse.

She came over and knelt on the opposite side of the mattress and took his hand in hers. He gave a little start and then removed the hand which he was holding on my breast and smoothed the one that held his.

"Hullo, Minnie! You're—late to-night—never do to be late. Naughty—little—girl. I've been—wanting you a lot—dear. I've missed you—dreadfully. Have you—missed me, Minnie?"

Out of pure delicacy I arose quietly and withdrew. When I came back at the end of a quarter of an hour, he was smoothing her cheeks.

Then the poor hand passed down over the collar of her dress, down to the bib of her apron. This, I saw, was wet with his life's blood.

"Been gardening, Minnie?" he murmured as his hand came into contact with the moisture. "You've got yourself wet. You'll catch cold, deary. Be careful."

Then another short silence, while the hand traveled up to the bonny head of hair that crowned her form.

Slowly and painfully he drew out the hairpins, one by one, and the tresses fell down over her shoulders onto the blood-stained coverlet.

"You—haven't had it—all cut off. You told me you would. But—that was long—ago. I thought you—didn't mean it."

She was a brave woman, that nurse. Few could have gone through the ordeal as she did. I do not know her now.

I do not even know her name, and I have never seen her since she left the ship for the transport a few weeks later at the termination of the war.

The heat of the cockpit, combined with the motion of the vessel, made me feel a bit giddy, and I went up for a breath of fresh air. I tried to look cheerful and to speak a word to the purser as I passed him.

But, confound it all, the word wouldn't come, and the dry, tickling sensation in my throat made me cough until my eyes watered.

But I never could leave the dying boy down there without me, so down I went again.

"And—now—you'll kiss me, Minnie—won't you?"

I looked at the eyeless and blackened countenance as he turned his poor head toward her. I looked at the pale, quivering lips of the noble girl who had thus lightened the end of one for whom she had nothing more than pity. He placed both arms about her neck, and she kissed him.—Pearson's Weekly.

His Rebuke.

Mr. Abner Jennings was never known to say a harsh thing to or about any one. His form of speech was invariably mild, and exaggerated statements were viewed by him as almost as reprehensible as lies. Once, in the spring of the year, when the Blueville roads were in a fearful condition of mud and mire, the team of a "traveling merchant" was stalled a short distance from Mr. Jennings' house. The old man at once brought out his oxen and went to the peddler's assistance.

The team could not be instantly released even with the aid of the yoke of oxen, and the peddler, who was a man of high temper and little self-control, proceeded to vent his rage in language which first amazed and then disgusted the equable Mr. Jennings. He bore it as long as he thought was necessary and proper and then unbitingly his oxen and went calmly home.

"I want to try to help him," he explained to his wife as he walked into the kitchen on his return, "but he talked so poorly that I came off and left him."

One day he caught some boys robbing his black cherry tree and surveyed them for some moments in speechless disapprobation. "Boys," he said at last, giving the culprits the sternest glance of which he was capable, "boys, I think you've been doing very poorly!"

After administering that stinging rebuke he turned on his heels and walked slowly away to the barn and never referred to the matter again.—Youth's Companion.

A Laugh on the Girls.

A good joke was played on the girls of Marion by the young men of that town. The boys had been rather remiss in their attentions to the young ladies and had been "staggering" it to the theater, parties, etc., until the girls got tired of being left in the cold and decided to show their independence. Consequently 15 of the girls hired a box at the theater and made a very charming theater party.

The play was "Wanted, a Husband," and the girls sat serene through it all, never dreaming that the wicked boys had taken one of the largest flaring posters, "Wanted, a Husband," and fastened it around the box so that all the audience might read.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Keds in Pickle.

One of the most useful institutions of Alexandria, Va., is the parental rod, which is always held in pickle at the station house for the use of such parents as desire to escape fines levied for the offenses of their unruly children. They are allowed to whip the bad boys at the station house, and in that case the fine is remitted.—Philadelphia Ledger.

G.A.R. NOTICE

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new Commissioner of Pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors, and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filing of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is seldom retroactive. Therefore it is of great importance that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible date.

If U. S. soldiers, or their widows, children, or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, they should write to the Press Claims Company at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address:

Iowa Lawmakers Adjourn.
DES MOINES, Iowa, April 7.—Although the Twenty-fifth general assembly of Iowa was supposed to adjourn without date at noon yesterday, that important event of the session did not take place until 2:30 p. m. The usual hilarious scenes attending the closing hours of such bodies were indulged in.

From the Book of Books.
"Hear, hear," is perhaps the most familiar interjection heard during debates in the house of commons, but how few members know the origin of the phrase. It will be a surprise to many to know that the earliest instance of its use is to be found in II Samuel, xx., 16: "Then cried a wise woman out of the city, 'Hear, hear!'"

Trouble.
"It's hard luck," said the waiter, "but I guess we'll have to stand the expense of a new steak."
"What do you mean?"
"The dime museum strong man was just here, and he kept at it till he succeeded in cutting a hole in it."

Large Castings of Aluminum.
It has heretofore been almost impossible to make large castings of aluminum, but the difficulty has been so far overcome that pure aluminum bath tubs are now made in a single piece.

Excessive Plainness.
Miss De Cops—Miss Buntling is very plain, I hear.
Miss Hardheart—Well, she's so homely that her diamonds won't sparkle when she wears them.

Imagination . .

is a great thing. With a lively imagination a man writes a wonderful book, a celebrated play, a great speech, a woman writes a tearful or fearful novel, without an imagination life would be a weary thing for many a man or woman. No castles in the air, no beautiful and happy homes, no rich uncle in the old world to leave them several millions. Imagination plays many a trick on us. Let a man go along the street, perfectly cool and comfortable, let him look at some thermometer that registers 90 degrees in the shade, off goes his coat and he'll begin to sweat like a rain storm.

If you imagine you can't see the most complete CORSET DEPARTMENT in the city HERE your imagination FOOLS you. We show 30 separate and distinct styles of corsets and waists, can suit everyone. If we do not happen to have some odd make that you are looking for we have some better style. Today we speak of FERRIS WAISTS, probably more generally worn by women, misses and children than any other make.

Every Mother Should Know that modern ideas of Healthful Dress are perfected in the Ferris' GOOD SENSE Waists.

Worn by over a million Mothers, Misses and Children. Buttons at front instead of clasps. Clamp Buckle at hip for hose supporters. Tape-fastened buttons—won't pull off. Cord-edge button holes—won't wear out. All sizes; all shapes. Full or slim bust; long or short waists.
